

I Want Your Cupcakes!
This Week At Judson Sunday School
(10/23/09)

Who doesn't love cupcakes? I know I do! As I was thinking ahead to next Sunday's Halloween Party, and about how I would need to ask for volunteers to bring in cupcakes, I couldn't help but wonder just how much sweeter the world would be if we all had more cupcakes. Even the word "cupcake" makes me happy. It got me to thinking just how much more enjoyable the news might be if you threw in the word "cupcake" from time to time. Here are a few examples of what I mean ripped from today's headlines:

VAST CUPCAKE CARTEL RAIDED

Staging raids in 19 states, the Justice Department struck this week at one of Mexico's most ruthless cupcake-trafficking organizations.

SENATE LEADER SHOWS NEW INTEREST IN CUPCAKE PLAN

FLIGHT ERROR ON NORTHWEST IS THE FOCUS OF INQUIRY

Washington – The National Transportation Safety Board began an investigation on Thursday into why a Northwest Airlines flight from San Diego to Minneapolis overshot its destination by about 150 miles on Wednesday evening. The crew told the Federal Bureau of Investigation and airport police that “they were in a heated discussion over cupcakes and lost situational awareness.”

BAD NEWS AT COURT FOR BEACH NUDES

San Francisco – California's highest court is allowing the state to tell sunbathers they can be punished for enjoying their cupcakes on public beaches, even in areas informally designated as “clothing optional.”
